SUPERVISION

The cleaners are supervised by experience and competent supervisors. The supervisors use checklist and daily duties charts. This method is highly effective as it covers all areas that need to be clean on a daily basis. The checklist is also used on scheduled cleaning activities for floor care, mopping, sweeping, dusting & web removing etc.

The cleaner's performance is also monitored by random surprise checks by area managers. This method is highly effective as it keeps the cleaners on their toes to ensure that their job has been done properly all the time. Performance is also used as an incentive to qualify for performance bonuses at the end of the year.

Cleaning Approach

Our cleaning crew follows a very easy and efficient cleaning approach. All cleanable areas at the time that the area needs to be cleaned are discussed and agreed with each cleaner before they start the cleaning. They are given charts of daily cleaning schedules, fully stating what they need to do on a daily basis in the area that they are assigned by you. They are also given periodic cleaning schedules. These would state which areas need to be cleaned and when. For example, high windows/glazing, deep cleaning of carpets, strip and seal of floors and cleaning of upholstery. They are well trained in all areas that they are expected to perform.

Our approach is that by the time officers start work most of the cleaning inside the respective offices should be done to minimize disturbances in the offices. Our cleaning crew starts work at before the start working time. They start with the office interior following the cleaning procedure outlined (but not limited to), their daily cleaning schedules. The cleaners then move to other areas such as hallways, restrooms, kitchen and the exterior surroundings. Tea and refreshments are also served to officers as required.
